

“OUR GRIEF IS NOT A CRY FOR WAR”

*Memorial to the
Victims of the U.S.
Global War on Terror*
Sunday, 1:00 pm
September 11
City Hall Park

IN THE DAYS AFTER 9/11/01, as the dust hung over lower Manhattan, and as a frantic search continued for those who died in the World Trade Center, thousands of Muslims were rounded up by the U.S. government and held in detention indefinitely, many to be deported. President Bush promised a “war on terror” that would be a “lengthy campaign unlike any other we have ever seen.” He barked to the world, “Either you are with us or you are with the terrorists.”

A group of artists acted first, coming together to deliver a different message to the world: “Our grief is not a cry for war!”

As the world remembers 3,000 people killed in the United States on 9/11, we remember the victims of the U.S.-led “global war on terror;” from the uncounted civilians killed by U.S. bombs, to those targeted in pre-emptive prosecutions, rotting in U.S. prisons from Indiana to Afghanistan.

Once again, it’s time for the artists of the world—and others who share this same sensibility, all of us who want a better world—to cry out in protest and grief with a different message to the people of the world:

All this has not been done in our names!

We rededicate ourselves to resist the machinery of war and repression and rally others to do everything possible to stop it.

The U.S. must end these wars now!

Visual and performing artists who would like to contribute work memorializing the victims of the U.S. global war on terror, please visit:

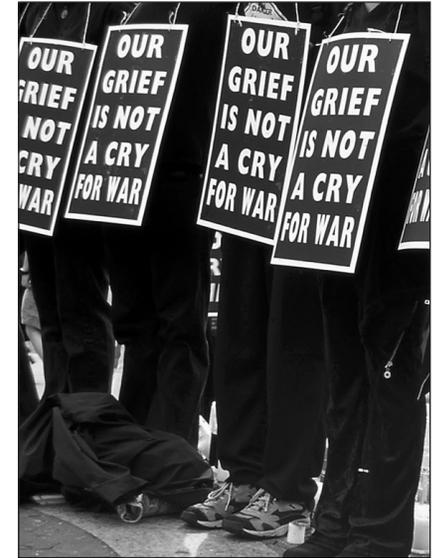

www.911globalmemorial.net OR CALL 866.973.4463.

“OUR GRIEF IS NOT A CRY FOR WAR”

*Memorial to the
Victims of the U.S.
Global War on Terror*
Sunday, 1:00 pm
September 11
City Hall Park

IN THE DAYS AFTER 9/11/01, as the dust hung over lower Manhattan, and as a frantic search continued for those who died in the World Trade Center, thousands of Muslims were rounded up by the U.S. government and held in detention indefinitely, many to be deported. President Bush promised a “war on terror” that would be a “lengthy campaign unlike any other we have ever seen.” He barked to the world, “Either you are with us or you are with the terrorists.”

A group of artists acted first, coming together to deliver a different message to the world: “Our grief is not a cry for war!”

As the world remembers 3,000 people killed in the United States on 9/11, we remember the victims of the U.S.-led “global war on terror;” from the uncounted civilians killed by U.S. bombs, to those targeted in pre-emptive prosecutions, rotting in U.S. prisons from Indiana to Afghanistan.

Once again, it’s time for the artists of the world—and others who share this same sensibility, all of us who want a better world—to cry out in protest and grief with a different message to the people of the world:

All this has not been done in our names!

We rededicate ourselves to resist the machinery of war and repression and rally others to do everything possible to stop it.

The U.S. must end these wars now!

Visual and performing artists who would like to contribute work memorializing the victims of the U.S. global war on terror, please visit:

www.911globalmemorial.net OR CALL 866.973.4463.